Museum Notes.

September has been a record month so far as precipitation has been concerned, the total for the month being 8.11 inches. The greatest amount which fell in 24 hours was on the 29th when 1.45 inches fell. In the sudden and severe shower which occurred early in the afternoon of the 24th, .65 of an inch fell in an hour or so. During no September since 1894, when the Museum records were first started, has the precipitation been as much as during the past month. 1898 shows a total rain-fall of 5.42 inches, and 1904 has a record of 5.15 inches. The average precipitation for this month from 1894 through 1907 is 3.64, showing that September of this year has gained 4.47 inches over the average. In fact, more than that may be said. It has carried off the palm for the total record since January, 1894. The months which have most nearly approached it are November of 1900 with a precipitation of 6.15 inches; August, 1902, 6.44; and July of 1898 when the rain-fall was 6.60 inches.

W. E. Balch of Lunenburg, who is the taxidermist for the Museum, is in town at present, and has brought to the Museum some large photographs of the Franconia Mountains which he has obtained during this summer. These photographs are taken from unusual situations and are very fine, both artistically and in technique. They will be at the office of the Museum for a short time, and people who are interested may see them there.

The postage stamp collection has been greatly increased the past week by about 150 additions. Several of the more valuable ones have been donated by friends of the Museum and others have been secured by exchange with stamp collectors in various parts of the country.

Small change is a small matter that becomes a very large one when you suddenly find yourself out of it—Merchants have lost sales through inability to make change; some people are so impatient they won't wait—

COLONIAL

PAINT. Smooth Surface

Ready Roofing

"Colonial" Paint first introduced here in 1905. Sales in 1905, $15.00; sales in 1906, $1500.00; retailed some 1000 gallons in St. Johnsbury, painted some 30 to 40 houses and buildings. Everybody pleased except one woman, who used lead and oil. The result is plain.

Who sells "Colonial"? Most reliable dealers. If yours don't keep it send us your name on a postal and we'll see that you get it. Ten houses painted on Portland street alone this past season. Price is not higher than some poor paints sell—quality is superior—par excellence—painters enthusiastic over its lustre and finish. Not a dissatisfied customer yet—proof of its purity? Ask the property owner. Quality first, last, and all the time. If every house in town was painted "Colonial" it would be the paint that would make St. Johnsbury famous.

The season is now with us when you will have completed the harvesting off your crops, and you will enjoy a well earned rest from the cares and anxieties of work in your fields.
